

We're excited to announce our new range of Forest School Programmes, which will teach you the skills and knowledge required to successfully delivery your own forest school sessions in a woodland environment.

Forest schools provide learners with the opportunity to develop personal, social and emotional life skills through hands-on nature-based learning. We offer Forest School Programmes at Level 1 to Level 3, which are suitable for those who want to learn the skills required to assist a Forest School Leader, or plan and run their own Forest School sessions.

Qualifications include

Forest School Programme Principles Level

1

This two day short course provides an introduction into using the outdoor environment as a tool to facilitate different learning styles and develop personal skills such as confidence and self-esteem.
