

Transforming Together - The Guildford College Group Merging with Activate Learning

Posted on 25 June 2018

The governing bodies of Guildford College Group and Activate Learning are delighted to share details of the proposed exciting new partnership between our colleges.

The proposal is that the three colleges, Guildford College, Merrist Wood College and Farnham Sixth Form College will become a member of Activate Learning, alongside Reading College, City of Oxford College, Banbury and Bicester College and Bracknell and Wokingham College which is on track to join in the autumn of 2018.

This partnership will provide learners, staff and employers in the area with new opportunities and choices, giving access to growth and development opportunities made possible by being part of a larger group with national influence.

By joining forces we intend to harness the strengths of our two organisations, bringing together successful colleges in Oxfordshire, Berkshire and Surrey, working together for the benefit of local learners and businesses.

Having the support and backing of the communities we serve is important to us.

The public consultation closed on Friday 27 July, but you can still read through the plans. A report summarising the results of the consultation will be published here by 27 September 2018.
